

Hello! We are Cameron and Jenny. We're so thankful that you would take the time to look over our profile and consider us as parents for your precious baby. We think you are incredibly courageous for making this decision, and we hope you know that your child will be so loved and cared for with us. Here's a snapshot of our life.

About Us

Cameron and I met while working at a coffee shop together in high school. We remained good friends throughout college until one day he asked me to be more. When we started dating, our friends weren't even surprised—the two of us together just made sense. We've been happily married now for 11 years!

Shortly after getting married, we moved to New Jersey so Cameron could pursue a graduate degree. We enjoyed exploring the east coast and even took a trip to Europe. When Cameron graduated, we moved back to the midwest to be near family—and to start our own. But things didn't work out exactly as we had planned.

After years of infertility, it became clear just how much we longed to have a child. We adopted our son Rudy in 2023, and he has been a tremendous blessing to us. Through prayer, God has confirmed that we have room in our hearts and home for another child. (And Rudy would love a sibling!) If you were to choose us to raise your child, we would never take that for granted.

Our Life Together

We've been blessed to have a strong and joyful marriage. We're best friends and we love spending time together no matter what we're doing. Rudy has only added to our joy.

We live a quiet life and appreciate the simple things: being together, listening to jazz music, making delicious food, reading outside in our backyard, going for evening walks. We enjoy traveling together and exploring new places. We're kind of old souls, appreciating early bedtimes, breaks from screens and social media, and going at a slower pace. We're also very creative people. Jenny loves to sew and design; Cameron plays guitar and writes poetry.

Our Faith

Our Christian faith is the most important aspect of who we are. We could not have survived the last 8 years of infertility without relying on God and his promises to us. Jesus told his disciples to love God and love others, so that's what we desire to do in all things, including raising any children God may bring into our life.

We hope as parents that we can show our children how deeply loved they are—not only by us and our family but also by Jesus. We are not perfect, but by the grace of God, we will provide a safe home full of love, joy, and hope for your child.

About Jenny

by Cameron

Seriously, Jenny is an amazing woman. I have loved discovering more of her personality at each stage in our relationship, first as co-workers, then friends, then fiancés, and for the past 11 years as husband and wife.

One thing I've learned is that Jenny is affectionate and nurturing. She feels and cares deeply for the people closest to her and goes out of her way to make them feel comfortable. When we adopted Rudy, she instantly embraced motherhood and continues to care for him as a hard-working stay-at-home mom. Caring is in her nature.

I can't imagine how difficult and strange it must feel to be choosing a new family for your baby. But I'm sure finding a mother who will love your child like you do is important. Let me assure you: Jenny will devote her entire life to caring for the child we adopt. She has always told me, "I just want to be a mom." And I truly believe it's her calling from God to do that.

About Jenny

by Cameron

Jenny has a warm and gentle personality, which makes her super easy to be around. (P.S. I think this is one reason she's so great with babies! She makes them feel relaxed because she is.) Jenny is a great listener and knows how to connect with others. She also knows when to be goofy and loves the occasional spontaneous dance party around the house. 😊

Motherhood has always been Jenny's dream. She stays home with Rudy, works as a designer on the side, and always puts family first. I know she is more than ready to welcome another child into our family. I hope you get to meet Jenny—I know she'd love to meet you!

Jenny's favorite things...

- Rudy's laugh
- classic 80s and 90s rom-coms
- reading a feel-good book
- evening walks with family
- baking yummy treats
- designing fabric and wallpaper

About Cameron

by Jenny

I know this might sound cheesy to say, but I totally mean it – Cameron is the biggest blessing in my life. Every day I'm just so thankful that God gave me him as a husband and best friend. He's selfless, loyal, thoughtful, compassionate, and kind.

He gives 100% to everything that he does. Whether that's at work where he's a content strategist, church where he leads worship, or at home as my husband and Rudy's dad. Cameron has one of the most unique personalities; he loves so many vastly different things. He likes writing poetry and listening to jazz but also working out and going on long runs while listening to rock music.

He bakes amazing sourdough bread and pizza, and Friday night pizza nights are a big hit at our house. He's a forever student, always wanting to learn more. He's an incredibly deep thinker and helps me to slow down and think about the big (and little) things. Speaking of which, he does the little things for me that he knows I don't like to do like taking out the trash, changing my toothbrush head, and cutting squash.

About Cameron

by Jenny

But most importantly, he lives out the gospel to me every day in the way that he loves me unconditionally, even when I don't deserve it. He points me to Christ and makes me a better person. That's also one of the reasons why I think he's a great dad. He loves Rudy with a fierce love. He's supportive, patient, and protective but he also tells the best stories, makes up the silliest songs, and flies Rudy around the room until he can't stop giggling. He'll be the dad reading our children Bible stories, chasing them around the backyard, and helping them dream a little bigger.

He's the person I can't get enough of. The person I love coming home to. The one who is silly and makes me laugh with his ridiculous dance moves. He's my favorite person and I know he'll be our child's favorite too.

Cameron's favorite things...

- reading books
- writing poetry
- running
- jazz music
- playing guitar
- exploring outdoors

About Rudy

Rudy is observant, gentle, and kind. He loves to play with his trucks, take adventures, and read. We know he'll make the best big brother. Getting to be his adoptive mom and dad has been a profound honor. I believe we're better parents because of our journey with infertility. When he's crying in the middle of the night and we're tired, we're also so thankful. Raising Rudy has taught us that being parents is a privilege and a responsibility we don't take lightly.

We've been fortunate to have an open relationship with Rudy's biological mother, father, brother, and grandparents. We think it's important that he has a relationship with them, and we know he feels loved by all of us. We believe God uses adoption to bring healing to our hurting world. It's not always easy, but it is good!

"See what kind of love the Father has given to us, that we should be called children of God; and so we are." (1 John 3:1)

Jenny and Rudy with her sister Erika and her mom Joleen

Jenny's Family

I'm lucky to have my family close by. My parents and only sister all live in South Dakota, only about 5-10 minutes away.

My mom is always there when you need her, no questions asked. As a nurse, she's a natural caretaker and is always on call for her daughters. My dad, the entertainer, will always try to make you laugh. And my sister will be sure to spoil her niece or nephew, as she does Rudy. They all jump at the chance to babysit Rudy, and Rudy loves spending time with his "Bapa," "Jojo," and Auntie Erika.

Rudy with his cousins at Grandma and Grandpa's farm

Cameron's Family

I grew up in a small town in Nebraska with three sisters, one brother, my parents, and a few pets. We've always been a tight-knit and supportive bunch. Even though Jenny and I live in South Dakota now, we still get to see my family several times a year.

We now have 6 nieces and 3 nephews. We would love to add another little one to the family and give them a cousin to play with! Basically, I love my family and I think they're amazing. We know they will be so supportive when we adopt our second child.

Time at home is important to us to rest and recharge, so we try not to overfill our schedules. Becoming parents has reintroduced us to the simple joys of playgrounds, soccer balls, and duck ponds (Rudy likes to feed them). Life goes by fast, so we try to enjoy every day God gives us, together.

We hope to offer...

a nurturing home

We will offer a loving home where your child always feels welcome, wanted, cared for, and safe. Our love for them will always be unconditional; there's nothing they can do or say that will ever change that. We will always be there with open arms and ears. We will teach them to cling to God in good times and in bad. We hope to raise our child to be caring, confident, and kind.

a loving family

Being great parents to your child is our top priority. Between our two families, we also offer a strong financial and social support system, with festive family gatherings and holidays to look forward to. We're also involved with our church family. We love doing life with community and your baby will be surrounded by many helping hands as well as lots of other children to play with.

a wealth of opportunities

We believe in learning and trying new things. We hope to offer your child many opportunities to discover his or her talents, explore the world, and continue thriving in every stage of life.

Thank You!

Thank you for making the incredible, selfless decision of choosing adoption. What a gift you are giving to a loving family. Our hearts are with you as you walk this journey, and our prayer is that you would have hope and peace as you make your decision. If you choose us, we promise your child will grow up with a deep sense of your love. No matter what decision you come to, thank you for taking the time to consider us.

Cameron, Jenny & Rudy